

I'm disturbed that Sinclair Broadcasting is forcing stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary just before the elections. What particularly bothers me is that this company doesn't represent people on a national level and not those from my community. I'm also bothered that local stations seem to have no say in whether or not they can air the piece. They use public airwaves, they should consider the public interest. That public interest lies with local control of content.

Let's put local people in control of local media, please.
